Church address list

All Saints Cottenham

The church address list aims to include all those associated with the two churches, whether or not they are on the electoral roll. We suggest that non-attending members of the household are included too: it saves the embarrassment of trying to remember their names if they answer the telephone!

The address list is distributed in printed form to those who are on it. Copies are not kept anywhere public, and we assume that people will not pass on information from it. However if your telephone number is ex-directory, we can precede it with EX to remind people to be particularly careful. If there are details which you are happy for the church to have, but would rather did not appear in the printed copy, please indicate that; these will be held only on the central database and Kylie's copy.

E-mail addresses are becoming increasingly useful. We do suggest, though, that if you include an e-mail address or mobile number which you do not check regularly, you indicate that, so people know not to use it for urgent messages.

If you would like to be added to the church address list, please complete this form or e-mail the information to the address below.

Details will be included in the next update sheet and the next reprint of the whole directory, and you will be supplied with the latest version of the directory together with any updates..

Electoral roll

The electoral roll is the formal document which determines those who are allowed to vote at the Annual Parochial Church Meeting. Electoral roll forms are available in church, on the website, from Kylie or from the electoral roll officers.
